For Congress,
MAJOR J. A. CONNOLLY.

Connolly for Congress.

The Republicans of the Seventeenth congressional district yesterday nominated by acclamation Maj. James A.
Connolly for congress. In this case, though the district is nominally Democratic by 2000, the chances for the election of Mr. Connolly and the defeat of Mr. Springer is as good as assured. Mr.
Springer has been in congress so long that the district has been known as the Springer district instead of by its number, or as the Springfield district. He has always been among the tightest bound of hide-bound partisans, and in no instance has he shown the slightest disposition to independence of thought or action. It made no difference to him what the Democratic administration proposed to do, or how infamous it was, he supported it. The Hawaiian infamy, the pension infamy and the tariff
infamy are all virtues in his eyes.
He has persistently disregarded the varied interests of his district and has done as much as any one man to bring about the present distress in the country, including the district he represents.
The policies he has so long advocated, and which up to the present time he has been unable to put into effect have been found to be disastrous to the country, and the people of the district have discovered to their sorrow that he has misrepresented them, and they propose at the coming election to retire him and elect a man broad enough to advocate and vote for policies in the interest of the business and labor of the country.

James A. Connolly, the Republican nominee, is such a man. He believes that labor should be well paid, and that unless the conditions prescribed by a tariff are such as will admit of well paid labor, that the home market must go down and that in that event business must be depressed and farm products reduced to the condition of begging for a market, and when elected will represent fairly the district that so long has been misrepresented.
James A. Connolly is one of the ablest men in the state, a man whose abilities will at once make him a leader in the great council of the nation and an honor to the district. Let the voters of the district, regardless of party affiliation, consider their interest in a proper representation in congress and lay aside every prejudice and vote for the man who will vote and work to restore the country to the prosperous condition it was in before the present administration got control of our public affairs.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

Absolutely No Progress Made in the Senate

IN THE WOOL AND WOOLEN SCHEDULE.

A Lively Row in the House Over the Discussion of the Indian Appropriation in Committee of the Whole—A Personal Conflict Averted.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—No progress whatever was made in the senate to-day in the wool and woollen schedule of the tariff bill. The discussion in the only part of the day was kept closely confined to the question actually before the senate—whether raw wool shall be placed on the free list or on the dutiable list, and was of an interesting character. It was opened by Mr. Lodge, who characterized the proposition to place wool on the free list as selfish, unfair, partial and shortsighted to the last degree. He was followed by Mr. Teller, who expressed his conviction that he might as well speak to the blustering northeast wind as to talk to democratic senators on the subject of free wool and said that the wool-growers of the country would understand that putting of wool on the free list was an attempt on the part of the democratic party to placate the woolen manufacturers.

Mr. Hear characterized the offer of free wool to the woolen manufacturers as an apple of Sodom held to their lips, but which they resented and scorned. In the course of some brief remarks Mr. Hear was asked by Mr. Vest as to what disposition in regard to the rate of duty on wool would be and he expressed his willingness to accept five cents a pound or 40 per cent ad valorem. Mr. Vest, however, indicated no purpose either to accept or reject that offer.

Mr. Platt declared that of all the abhorrent features of the tariff bill none was so abhorrent to him as the free-wool proposition. As to the bill itself, he said that he despised it in his heart and denounced it with all the energy that he was capable of.

This speech of Mr. Platt's closed up for the day the direct discussion of the free-wool proposition. It was followed by a two-hour's discussion of Mr. Higgins directed chiefly to the relations of the United States and Canada, and by speeches by Mr. Chandler and Mr. Dolph.

After an unsuccessful effort on the part of Mr. Harris to have a time fixed for taking a vote on the question of free wool, the senate, at 6 p. m., adjourned.

HOUSE.

In the house to-day, during the consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, Mr. Johnson moved to increase the salary of the superintendent of schools from $2,500 to $3,000. It was advocated by Messrs. Johnson, Pickler, Adams, Quinn and Everett. Mr. Maddox opposed the amendment, asserting that if common sense was to be found in the administration of the Indian schools, it would have to be looked for from some other source than the superintendent, judging from the rules that he had promulgated.

Mr. Cox offered an amendment abolishing the office of superintendent of Indian schools. Mr. Cannon moved to amend Mr. Cox's amendment by including the office of Indian commissioner in the work of abolishment. He said if the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. Cox) and Indiana (Mr. Holman) believed that the office of superintendent of Indian schools should be abolished, "he wanted to see them and go them one better by abolishing the office of Indian commissioner, and let Secretary Smith, who, his friends say, is the best worker in America, take charge of the bureau. Having expressed himself, Mr. Cannon withdrew the amendment.

On Mr. Johnson's amendment the vote, on division, was 41 to 51. Mr. Combs made the point of no quorum, and a vote by tellers resulted. Yeas, 80; nays, 76.

Mr. Holman said that he would ask for a vote on the amendment in the house, but Mr. Maddox insisted upon the point of no quorum, and the call of the roll was begun.

Mr. Johnson gave notice to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Maddox), that inasmuch as a vote by yeas and nays could be had on this amendment in the house, he (Mr. Johnson) would require the presence of a quorum to act upon any proposition before the committee. If he (Mr. Maddox) insisted upon the point at this time.

This irritated Mr. Maddox, and he shouted something back to Mr. Johnson in response which could not be heard above the din of the chairman's gavel and the stentorian tones of the clerk calling the roll. Mr. Johnson was standing in the rear of the clerk's desk, and in a moment Mr. Maddox walked down the aisle toward him, shouting that "the gentleman could not bulldoze him."

Two deputy sergeants-at-arms were at the men's elbows and no collision occurred, although the situation appeared threatening for a moment.

Mr. Dockery, in the chair, was working the gavel and his voice to the utmost limit in the effort to restore order, and the two officials started to accompany the two members to their seats. Their progress was not rapid enough to suit the chairman, however, and with a particularly emphatic bang of the gavel he said: "The gentleman from Georgia and the gentleman from Indiana will be in order." To which Mr. Johnson responded:

"Why Mr. Chairman, I've been trying for five minutes to get the gentleman from Georgia in good order."

"This pleasantry did not strike the chairman favorably, for he stated severely: 'The gentleman from Indiana will take his seat and observe the rules of the house, which he did, and the calling of the roll was then continued.'

One hundred and eighty-six members answered the names of the absentees were ordered to be entered upon the journal, and the proceedings in committee of the whole were reported.

Mr. Johnson's amendment was defeated—yeas 80, nays 94.

TO TRY SALT AIR,

As a Remedial Agent, the President Goes to the Capes of Chesapeake.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The president has gone to the capes of Chesapeake to try the efficacy of salt air as a recuperative agent. He intends to cruise for several days on the lighthouse tender Maple, in company with R. M. Orly, his regular physician, and Capt. Evans, naval secretary of the light house board, and if his health is benefited as much as expected he may return to the White House next Monday or Tuesday. He drove to the boat last evening at 7:30 and a little later said good-bye to Private Secretary Thurber as the Maple started down the river. Mr. Thurber said:

"The president has naturally lost some strength in the past week or two and he has concluded, on the advice of his physician, to seek recuperation near salt water. I think he will return the first of next week and have no doubt the rest and ocean breeze will do him good."

AND DAMAGING ADMISSIONS MADE.

His Fertility in Bleeding the Firm Only Equaled by His Effrontery in Claiming to Have Made It What It Is.

SIMPLY ABSURD.

Statements of a New York Paper Proposed to be Withheld from the Jury.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Teller (rep., Col.), following an elaborate argument by Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, against putting wool on the free list, called attention to an article in Wednesday's New York Tribune to the effect that on some articles in the woolen schedule the duties were prohibitory; and he asked the senators to give information on that point. As this was a protectionist paper he thought the statements should not be overlooked.

Mr. Aldrich asserted that not only were there no prohibitory duties in the schedule, but there were no duties sufficiently protective.

Mr. Vest said that as a matter of course the thing was so absurd that it hardly needed any notice on his side of the chamber. There was not the slightest foundation for any such statement. It was a myth, a fiction. It was like 90 per cent. of all such newspaper statements, in the nature of sensational conjecture.

Then Mr. Teller proceeded with his speech.

Didn't Know a Thing.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Sugar trust committee began its session yesterday with an unprofitable witness. He was Mr. Charles H. Coester, a member of the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., and was summoned on a suggestion made to the committee that he might know something about senators and sugar stock. Mr. Coester showed to the satisfaction of the committee that he knew nothing whatever of the subject, and he was excused.

DENOUNCED THE SIGNERS.

And Yet the Scale Obtained Was the Best That Could be Secured Now.

BRAZIL, Ind., June 14.—Yesterday afternoon the miners received the official report of the action of the Columbus convention. They are greatly dissatisfied, and a mass meeting is called for this afternoon to decide whether to accept or reject the scale. It is believed the scale will be rejected.

Vice-President P. H. Penna is in the city and will be present at the meeting to-day. Mr. Penna says that the scale was the very best that could be secured for the miners, as other laborers have been reduced about 40 per cent while the miners have only been reduced 10 per cent. A miner residing at Newburg overheard Mr. Penna's remarks and quickly secured the official that the miners in his locality were very indignant and would ask Dunkerly and Mr. McBride to resign.

Mr. Penna promptly replied that it would be unnecessary, as the present officials had already instructed President McBride to tender their resignations. Mr. Penna said he deplored the present condition of affairs as much as the strikers, but he was in a position to know that if a settlement had not been reached the miners would have been reduced fifty cents within ten days. At numerous points in the county miners have held meetings and denounced the action of McBride.

DEEDS OF LAWLESSNESS

Done Under Cover of Darkness by Lurking Bands of Strikers.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 14.—Striking miners, in their desperation to stop coal shipments, continue to apply the torch to railroad property. Last night a mob of strikers were seen attempting to set fire to a Georgia Pacific bridge near Coalburg, when they were fired upon by guards and driven away. A few minutes later the mob went to another bridge 300 yards away, saturated it with oil and applied the torch within sight of the guards, fleeing as the latter approached. The fire was extinguished before the bridge was entirely destroyed.

On the same road, near Parish, another mob was found placing dynamite under the foundations of a bridge to blow it up, when the guards opened fire on them and put them to flight.

The Georgia Pacific, being operated by receivers appointed by the federal court, yesterday applied to Judge Bruce for government protection of the road's property. Judge Bruce issued orders for the marshal to take steps at once to protect the property from further depredation, and government troops will be called out, if necessary.

Deeds of lawlessness done under cover of darkness by lurking bands of strikers are becoming so frequent as to spread alarm throughout the district. All the roads are still maintaining heavy guard forces along their lines.

Will Retain—Ravages of the Plague.

HONG KONG, June 15.—Thousands of placards have been posted in the streets of Canton giving notice that if the governor of Hong Kong carries out his expressed intention of destroying the Chinese quarter in that city, the British settlement in Canton will be burned.

The health authorities reported eighty-two deaths from the plague yesterday.

Through Traffic Resumed.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 15.—Through traffic to the coast was resumed on the Northern Pacific yesterday. Most of the damage done to the road by the flood has been repaired, and traffic will only be slightly delayed.

THE WIMAN TRIAL.

Damaging Evidence Introduced Against Defendant

AND DAMAGING ADMISSIONS MADE.

His Fertility in Bleeding the Firm Only Equaled by His Effrontery in Claiming to Have Made It What It Is.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Erastus Wiman had a haggard, worn look in his eyes as he entered the court of ayer and terminated this morning, that told of a sleepless night filled with anxiety and thought. When the court was called to order Mr. Wiman was called. The first question asked by Gen. Tracy was in relation to the answer sent by Mr. Wiman to a letter sent him by Mr. Dun on January 12, 1893, complaining about Mr. Wiman's excessive over-drafts.

The witness said yesterday that he had not taken a copy of his answer, and Mr. Dun could not remember having received the answer. This morning Mr. Wiman produced what he said was a copy of the answer, which he claimed to have found over night. After some argument it was finally decided to admit the letter, and Mr. Wiman was directed to read it.

The letter was very long. In it the writer dwelt upon his long service with the company, and complained that had his interest in the business not been reduced from 25 to 17 per cent, he could not have been in such financial difficulties. He also spoke of his property, and said that he hoped that within a short time he would be able to realize on his investments, and then pay back his indebtedness.

Gen. Tracy then came to the time when Mr. Wiman drew the $5,000 Bullinger check. Mr. Wiman said he did not draw it with the intention of defrauding either Dun & Co., or Mr. Bullinger. Although he had no specific authority to use Mr. Bullinger's name, he thought his position in the firm gave him the right. He needed the money and did not want to draw it on his own account.

Gen. Tracy then got the witness to tell about writing the confession of February 30, 1893. Witness said he had received a telegram from Mr. MacFarland asking him to call at his office. He did so, and Mr. MacFarland had told him that he ought to write some sort of a letter to Mr. Dun. It was entirely on Mr. MacFarland's suggestion that the letter was written.

The defense then announced that their examination of the defendant was at an end.

Mr. Wellman began the cross-examination by attempting to show that Mr. Wiman had not amounted to so very much after all. He wanted to know how much the witness had ever earned before he entered Mr. Dun's employ. The witness said that $12 a week was as much as he had ever earned. "And you went with Mr. Dun and made the firm what it is to-day?" asked Mr. Wellman.

"Yes," said the witness. "That is the case. 'I made R. G. Dun & Co. what it is.'"

"Then Mr. Dun and Mr. Barlow were merely figureheads?"

"Yes, that is about it. I was the head and front of the concern and made it what it is."

"If that is true, how does it happen that the profits have been larger during the past year, when you were out of the concern, than at any other time?"

"That," replied Mr. Wiman, "is due to the natural momentum of a large body. My absence will be felt after this year, I am sure."

Mr. Wellman then produced and read a letter written by Mr. Dun to Mr. Wiman in December, 1891, in which the writer announces his intention of withdrawing the name of Mr. Wiman from the firm name because of something that had happened.

This mysterious something turned out to be a charge against Wiman that he had bribed a clerk of the Mutual Union Telegraph Co. to steal the Western Union Telegraph Co.'s contracts.

Mr. Wiman's reply, begging for mercy, was then read.

After a recess Mr. Wiman's cross-examination was continued. Mr. Wellman produced letters written by Wiman to Mr. Dun in an abject vain, begging for mercy for his past misdeeds. These letters referred to the fact that, against the rules of his firm, he had borrowed $25,000 from the Chemical National bank on a note.

After this, Mr. Wellman brought out the fact that shortly after this time Wiman had taken $25,000 from the trust fund of the company, and on a subsequent occasion $8,000. These amounts had been returned to the firm by Wiman after it was discovered that he had taken the money. Mr. Wellman then made witness make some sensational admissions.

By means of various letters and telegrams written by Wiman, and by means of the company's books, Mr. Wellman showed and got the witness to admit that during the year 1891 he had collected altogether $67,000 due the firm and diverted it to his own personal use; and during this period the witness was writing to Mr. Dun telling him that he would not overdraw his account. Then at the end of the year, when the accounts were coming, Mr. Wiman had the full amount charged to his account making the deficiency, with the famous $135,000 check, which was drawn by Wiman when he had a balance of less than $10,000 in the bank.

Said to Satisfy Creditors.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 14.—The Memphis & Raleigh Springs railroad, an electric line running between Memphis and Raleigh Springs, a distance of eleven miles, was again under the hammer to-day to satisfy creditors. It was knocked down at $121,500.

CAUSED BY POVERTY.

George Brock Kills His Wife, His 7-Year-Old Boy and Himself.

BORDER, Ind., June 15.—The finding of three decomposed bodies near here yesterday revealed the sad story of a family tragedy. The bodies were identified as those of George Brock, aged 45; his wife, of the same age, and their son, aged 7. The surroundings showed that Brock had killed his wife and child by shooting them with a shot gun and then committed suicide.

The crime is believed to have been committed Monday night, and the preparations show that it was deliberate. Brock had built a pen Monday in a lonely glen nearly a mile from town, to prevent stray hogs devouring the bodies. In the evening he persuaded his wife to accompany him to his mother's home, and on the way killed her. The child followed and was next killed. Then Brock dragged the bodies into the pen and covered them with clothes. He then laid down beside his wife and fired the shotgun with a stick, blowing his own head off.

The bodies were found yesterday morning by two elder brothers of the child killed, who were searching for their parents. Their homes was at Speeds, a settlement near here, and the family was respectable but poor. Brock had been out of work for some time, and his poverty is believed to have been the cause of the tragedy.

Circumstantial evidence pointed conclusively to him as having been the incendiary. Day was arrested and put in jail. Later in the night he was taken from the jail and hanged to the limb of a tree.

BENEATH THE WAVES

Thirty-Five Persons Find Watery Graves

BY THE CAPSIZING OF A SMALL VESSEL

Carrying Harvesters from the Island of Achill, Ireland, in Search of Employment—Heroic Work of a Party of Rescuers.

DUBLIN, June 15.—A boat containing 110 harpooners, crossing from Achill, Ireland, to Westport, County Mayo, was capsized this morning, and thirty-five of its occupants were drowned.

Many of the agriculturists on the island of Achill go to England every year to work in the harvest fields. The unfortunate party started for Westport that place for England this morning. When about half the distance, at a cross flow bar, the wind became squally, but did not blow hard enough to make the trip appear dangerous. They were only about a mile from Westport when a tremendous gust of wind struck them and the little sailing vessel capsized in a twinkling in full view of hundreds of people on shore who heard the agonizing shrieks of the drowning, and saw them sink before they could reach them.

The craft on which the harpooners left Achill was a one-masted fishing boat of fifteen tons, known along the coast as a hooker. It was commanded by Skipper Healey, an old and skillful seaman.

Later reports say that there were 110 persons aboard, all of them between the ages of 15 and 30. Undoubtedly the boat was overloaded. A strong gust of wind struck the boat just at the moment when the skipper attempted to jibe about. Many of the passengers were entangled in the sails and cordage, and probably all would have perished but for the quickness of the help from Westport.

The steamer Elm was waiting at Westport dock to take on passengers for Glasgow. She lowered four boats at once. The first of them reached the wreck but seven minutes after the accident. As the sea was smooth the rescuing party could work rapidly. They worked coolly despite the excitement around them and the screams of the women and girls. They saved seventy-five of the 110 passengers on the hooker. The other thirty-five were drowned. Those who were rescued were completely exhausted but all were restored upon the deck of the Elm.

The shore boats which reached the hooker about fifteen minutes after the accident collected fifteen dead bodies. Fifteen of the drowned were girls and women between the ages of 15 and 20. Three were boys under 20.

Capt. (Carroll) of the steamer Elm said in an interview that he saw the hooker approaching Westport shortly before noon and the pilot who saw her make ready to fish about remarked to him that it was a dangerous business. He signalled to Healey to lower his sail. Healey did not heed the signal. Healey was among those rescued and has been placed under arrest.

A dispatch from the port at 10 o'clock says that the bodies of eight more women, 4 men and two boys have been recovered. The divers say that they can see several other bodies in the water.

SETTLED AT LAST.

The Supreme Court on the Apportionment Controversy.

(Special to the Republican)
CHICAGO, June 15.—A Springfield special to the Chicago News says: The state supreme court has rendered an opinion in the apportionment cases to the effect that in these cases, as set forth in bills filed by appellants, it has no jurisdiction. This virtually affirms the decrees of the circuit courts at Springfield and Danville.

A Correction.

The Chicago Tribune to-day states that, while at Springfield yesterday, attending the congressional convention, I stated that Maj. Connolly, the Republican nominee for congress, in this district, would have from 500 to 600 plurality in Macon county. This is a mistake, as I stated to a reporter for that journal that in my opinion Macon county would give Maj. Connolly at least 1000 plurality and I fully believe his plurality will exceed these figures. I base this opinion upon the well-known fact, that the people of Macon county realize that they have been deceived by the party in power, and that the course of those party leaders has resulted in great disappointment and in great pecuniary losses to business men, farmers and wage earners and that like all sensible people, they will seek at the polls to correct the errors that have been made, by voting for a man who is committed to a policy that has made and kept this country prosperous until the Democratic party with its fallacies and fusions came into power. W. F. CALHOUN.

Yesterday, Supt. Gastman, of the Decatur public schools, reached the 60th milestone in his honorable journey of life. The teachers of the schools made note of the fact some days ago and yesterday they gave him an agreeable surprise by presenting him with a magnificently upholstered easy chair. John Loeffler, principal of the H. B. Purfe school, made the presentation, in the name of the teachers, many of whom were assembled in one of the rooms of the High School building to witness the scene. Mr. Gastman responded in a characteristic manner, and alluded to the fact that nine years ago on the occasion of his 25th anniversary as superintendent, the teachers had given him a fine watch. Now he had received a chair which would afford him a nice place for the balance of his days.
